What is a "Community College"?

Community colleges, also known as 2-year or Junior Colleges, are regionally accredited post-secondary institutions at which the AS or AA (Associates of Science or Arts) is the highest degree awarded. A BS or BA (Bachelor of Science or Arts) is earned from a 4 year college or university. Community colleges offer technical, transferable and continuing education or specialized curriculums.

1. Community Colleges:

- community based institutions that establish links and partnerships with high schools and the community
- deliver high quality programs at times and places for the convenience of the student
- have admission policies that are open to those with high school diplomas or its equivalent
- have tuition and fees that are approximately half of those at a 4 year college
- save students the cost of living on campus

2. Community Colleges offer:

- transfer curriculums that provide the first 2 years leading toward the bachelor's degree
- occupational-technical programs that prepare students for employment
- programs that assist students with upgrading of skills they already use
- programs that help students improve their basic academic skills
- certifications that may be completed in a few weeks up to 2 years.

Community College to University Transfers

Would you like to attend ASU or NAU but it may seem to be out of reach for right now? www.AZTransfer.com contains information about transfer programs, college majors, and a list of which community college courses transfer to one of the Arizona universities.

There are two programs that might help you transfer from a community college to a university. ASU has the MAPP program. NAU has the connect2NAU.

The nine Maricopa Community Colleges offers a program called MAPP which is a transfer program to ASU.

You attend any of their colleges for up to three years and complete the lower division requirements for your major at the community college. You then transfer to ASU for another 2 years to complete your bachelor's degree. ASU has over 250 majors that have MAPP course outlines online: www.transfer.asu.edu. Admission counselors at the community colleges can guide you. If you are interested in doing this program, make sure the admission counselor knows of your plans.

As part of the MAPP program, you become eligible for the tuition commitment program. Your tuition at ASU will be locked in at the tuition rate of the year that you begin the program at the community college.

If you choose the NAU program, you will be enrolled at the community college and NAU at the same time. You will be working on both an associate's and bachelor's degree.

NAU offers classes locally, online and in Flagstaff. As part of this program you have access to NAU resources such as their library. There are $2000 merit based scholarships available for NAU tuition for qualified students.

At least two semesters before you complete your community college classes, contact either ASU or NAU to ensure smooth transfer.

The University of Arizona also has a transfer program. Information at www.admissions.arizona.edu/transfer. May transfer 24 credit hours.

What are "Vocational and Technical Schools"?

Vocational or technical schools prepare high school graduates for a career or a specific job. The relationship between education and work has long been recognized as important. Private vocational/technical schools are "for profit" institutions. Student tuition is the primary source of their funding. Community colleges are "not for profit". Check your local community colleges to compare vocational programs for costs and class offerings before choosing a school. Also check with the school about their regional accreditation. This regional accreditation allows students to test for national licenses for certain careers.

1. Vocational-Technical schools offer:

- hands-on experience
- classrooms that represent how work is done on the actual job
- instructors who are experienced in the subject, in order to teach the necessary skills in the shortest time possible
- assistance with job placement upon completion of training
- students with this training have an advantage in learning new skills at the workplace, since their training has provided basic thinking and problem solving skills

How to pay for college...

Scholarships and waivers

awarded to students with good grades, athletic ability or musical or other talents. These do not have to be repaid.

Grants

based on financial need. These do not have to be repaid.

Loans

available to students (and parents) with financial need. These must be repaid after a student leaves school.

College work study

available to students with financial need. This federal employment program helps students reduce the cost of their education by allowing them to work on college campuses.

Campus employment

available to students with or without financial need.

Application Process

2. Entrance exams

- universities and 4 year colleges usually require that you take SAT or ACT

- write only on the requested topic
- ask a teacher to look over your essay
- check your spelling and grammar
- type your essay or write legibly
- keep a copy for yourself

4. Letters of Recommendation

- choose your writer carefully-someone who knows you well and can write positively about you
- give the writer 1-2 weeks to complete the recommendation

Colleges need certain documentation during the admission process. The sooner the admissions office has all of them, the sooner you will know about your admission status.

1. High School Transcripts

- before you graduate you must request a final transcript be sent to the college you will be attending
- these include scores of tests (AIMS, Stanford 10 and SAT/ACT) you took while in high school

2. Health Records

- you will need to furnish your shot records to your college
- these may be obtained from the Health Center at your high school or from Infinite Campus

- ACT or SAT scores are required for college athletes

American Opportunity Credit Helps Pay for the First Four Years of College

The American opportunity credit replaces the existing Hope credit, making it available to a broader range of taxpayers. Income guidelines are expanded and required course materials are added to the list of qualified expenses. Many of those eligible will qualify for the maximum annual credit of $2,500 per student.

The American opportunity credit, in many cases, offers greater tax savings than existing education tax breaks. Here are some key features of the credit:

- Tuition, related fees, books and other required course materials generally qualify. In the past, books usually were not eligible for education-related credits and deductions.
- The credit is equal to 100 percent of the first $2,500 spent and 25 percent of the next $2,000. That means the full $2,500 credit may be available to a taxpayer who pays $4,000 or more in qualified expenses for an eligible student.
- The full credit is available for taxpayers whose modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) is $80,000 or less (for married couples filing a joint return, the limit is $160,000 or less). The credit is phased out for taxpayers with incomes above these levels. These income limits are higher than under the existing Hope and lifetime learning credits.
- Forty percent of the American opportunity credit is refundable. This means that even people who owe no tax can get an annual payment of the credit of up to $1,000 for each eligible student. Existing education-related credits and deductions do not provide a benefit to people who owe no tax. The refundable portion of the credit is not available to any student whose investment income is taxed at the parents' rate, commonly referred to as the kiddie tax. See Publication 929, Tax Rules for Children and Dependents

This credit is only allowed for the first four years of post-secondary education. Graduate students still qualify for the lifetime learning credit and the tuition and fees deduction. For details on these and other education-related tax benefits, see Publication 970.

What are "Scholarships"?

Scholarships are a form of financial aid that is awarded to students for outstanding academics, community service, extra-curricular activities or other skills they poses. Scholarship applications must be filled out and sent to the awarding organization. Scholarships do not have to be repaid.

Applications are available at your school, parents work, church, local stores and organizations. Fill in the application completely following the directions exactly. Have someone proofread your application for spelling and accuracy. Double check the deadline as applications may be rejected if they arrive late.

The scholarship form may ask for a letter of recommendation, so plan ahead by gathering personal information in a resume to give to the writer. Think of possible writers for these recommendations - people who know you well and can write positively about you.

Keep a copy of each application along with the essay. You may be able to edit the essay and use it for other scholarships. Notify your counseling office or Career Center when you receive scholarship awards.

There is NEVER any reason to pay $$$$ to get scholarships or financial aid information.

-----

There are "scholarship" companies that invite students & parents to evening meetings or via Internet to sign up for their services. Costs range from $160 to $900! You can get all of this for free at school or other places on the Internet!
